FAQ

Can I put a toilet/ensuite in this pod?

In this version not really. However, we do a version of this model which is called the Finman Retreat. They have an extension attached where you can fit a full size ensuite. Get in touch and ask for info on the retreat if this is something you are interested in.

Are they easy to build?

They are designed as a kit. Think IKEA but in bigger, heavy-duty form! Don't get us wrong, it's best you have some build experience or be a competent DIY'er!

Is there any electricity in this pod?

No. The prices are for the timber kit, doors and roof covering. The idea is that you install whatever electrics and heating system you like. This can be as simple as putting a plug in electric radiator or a wood burner. Sockets and switches are installed at the time of build.

Can I put a log burner in this pod?

For sure. We always say, make sure to get it installed properly with the suitable fire board behind it if required. A stove really goes hand in hand with a Finman sleeper.

What maintenance is required?

As it is made of wood, it will require treatment at least every other year on the outside. This may sound like a lot but remember most of the pod is roof. The walls are only 1200mm high and the maintenance job isn't too bad.
